Mitigating the Concussion Crunch: Implications of Workplace Health and Safety Legislation and Risk Management Strategies in Professional Football

A presentation by guest speaker, Annette Greenhow, Assistant Professor in the Faculty of Law, Bond University

This presentation examines employers' liability and the implications of workplace health and safety legislation in professional football. It considers the role of the governing body and the employer clubs vested with the responsibility of providing a healthy and safe workplace in the context of concussion and within the risky field of play.

The presentation will also consider the obligation to carry out risk assessments and design risk management strategies to protect the health and safety of players.

Followed by networking and refreshments

Please feel free to join the speaker and guests for refreshments and a networking opportunity after the discussion.
